1. Policy Context

John Laing Training (JLT) is committed to protecting the rights and privacy of its learners and staff in accordance with the Data Protection Act.

JLT needs to process certain information about its staff, learners and other individuals it has dealings with for administrative purposes (e.g. to recruit and pay staff, to run courses, to record progress, to collect fees and to comply with legal obligations to funding bodies and government). To comply with the law, information about individuals must be collected and used fairly, stored safely and securely and not disclosed to any third party unlawfully.

The policy applies to all staff and students of JLT. Any breach of the Data Protection Act 1998 is considered to be an offence and in that event, JLT disciplinary procedures may apply. As a matter of good practice, other parties and individuals working with JLT, and who have access to personal information, will be expected to have read and comply with this policy.

2. Background to Data Protection Act 1998

The purpose of the Data Protection Act 1998 is to protect the rights and privacy of living individuals and to ensure that personal data is not processed without their knowledge, and, wherever possible, is processed with their consent.

Under the provisions of the Data Protection Act 1998, individuals have a right to know what personal is being held by JLT and why it is being held. Data subjects may challenge the data if they find that they are wrong and may also seek redress through the Courts.

3. Definitions – Data Protection Act 1998

JLT's Data Protection Registration Number is: Z8233483

6. Data Protection Principals

All processing of personal data must be done in accordance with the eight data protection principles.

Principle 1: Personal data shall be processed fairly and lawfully. Those responsible for processing personal data must make reasonable efforts to ensure that data subjects are informed of the identity of the data controller, the purpose(s) of the processing, any disclosures to third parties that are envisaged and an indication of the period for which the data will be kept.

Principle 2: Personal data shall be obtained for specific and lawful purposes and not processed in a manner incompatible with those purposes. Data obtained for specified purposes must not be used for a purpose that differs from those purposes.

Principle 3: Personal data shall be adequate, relevant and not excessive in relation to the purpose for which it is held. Information, which is not strictly necessary for the purpose for which it is obtained, should not be collected. If data is given or obtained which is excessive for the purpose, it should be immediately deleted or destroyed.

Principle 4: Personal data shall be accurate and, where necessary, kept up to date. Data, which is kept for a long time, must be reviewed and updated as necessary. No data should be kept unless it is reasonable to assume that it is accurate. It is the responsibility of individuals to ensure that data held by JLT is accurate and up-to-date. Completion of an appropriate enrolment or application form etc. will be taken as an indication that the data contained therein is accurate. Individuals should notify JLT of any changes in circumstance to enable personal records to be updated accordingly. It is the responsibility of JLT to ensure that any notification regarding change of circumstances is noted and acted upon.

Principle 5: Personal data shall be kept only for as long as necessary.

Principle 6: Personal data shall be processed in accordance with the rights of data subjects under the Data Protection Act.

Principle 7: Personal Data shall be kept safe from unauthorised access, accidental loss or destruction. Appropriate technical and organisational measures shall be taken against unauthorised or unlawful processing of personal data and against accidental loss or destruction of data.

Principle 8: Personal data shall not be transferred to a country or a territory outside the European Economic Area unless that country or territory ensures an adequate level of protection for the rights and freedoms of data subjects in relation to the processing of personal data. Data must not be transferred outside of the European Economic Area (EEA) - the EU Member States together with Iceland, Liechtenstein and Norway - without the explicit consent of the individual. Members of JLT should be particularly aware of this when publishing information on the Internet, which can be accessed from anywhere in the globe. This is because transfer includes placing data on a web site that can be accessed from outside the EEA.

7. Data Subject Rights

Data Subjects have the following rights regarding data processing, and the data that is recorded about them:

- To make subject access requests regarding the nature of information held and to whom it has been disclosed.
- To prevent processing for purposes of direct marketing.
- To be informed about mechanics of automated decision making process that will significantly affect them.
- To prevent processing likely to cause damage or distress.
- Not to have significant decisions that will affect them taken solely by automated process.
- To sue for compensation if they suffer damage by any contravention of the Act.
- To take action to rectify, block, erase or destroy inaccurate data.
- To request the Information Commissioner to assess whether any provision of the Data Protection Act has been contravened.

8. Consent

Wherever possible, personal data or sensitive data should not be obtained, held, used or disclosed unless the individual has given consent. JLT understands "consent" to mean that the data subject has been fully informed of the intended processing and has signified their agreement, whilst being in a fit state of mind to do so and without pressure being exerted upon them.

Consent obtained under duress or on the basis of misleading information will not be a valid basis for processing. There must be some active communication between the parties such as signing a form and the individual must sign the form freely of their own accord.

Consent cannot be inferred from non-response to a communication.

In most instances consent to process personal and sensitive data is obtained routinely by JLT (e.g. when a student signs an enrolment form).

Any JLT paperwork (whether paper-based or web-based) that gather data on an individual should contain a statement explaining what the information is to be used for and to whom it may be disclosed. It is particularly important to obtain specific consent if an individual's data is to be published on the Internet as such data can be accessed from all over the world. Therefore, not gaining consent could contravene the eighth data protection principle.

If an individual does not consent to certain types of processing (e.g. direct marketing), appropriate action must be taken to ensure that the processing does not take place.

If any member of JLT is in any doubt about these matters, they should consult JLT Data Protection Officer.

9. Data Security

All staff are responsible for ensuring that any personal data (on others) which they hold is kept securely and that it is not disclosed to any unauthorised third party.

All personal data should be accessible only to those who need to use it. Staff should form a judgement based upon the sensitivity and value of the information in question, but always consider keeping personal data:

- In a lockable room with controlled access, or
- In a locked drawer or filing cabinet, or
- If computerised, password protected, or
- Kept on electronic devices, which are themselves kept securely.

Care should be taken to ensure that computer screens are not visible except to authorised staff and that computer passwords are kept confidential. Computer screens should not be left unattended without password protected screen-savers and manual records should not be left where they can be accessed by unauthorised personnel.

Care must be taken to ensure that appropriate security measures are in place for the deletion or disposal of personal data. Manual records should be shredded or disposed of as "confidential waste". Hard drives of redundant PCs should be wiped clean before disposal.

This policy also applies to staff and students who process personal data "off-site". Offsite processing presents a potentially greater risk of loss, theft or damage to personal data. Staff and students should take particular care when processing personal data at home or in other locations.

10. Data Access Rights

Members of JLT have the right to access any personal data which is held by the Company in electronic format and manual records which form part of a relevant filing system. This includes the right to inspect confidential personal references received by the Company about that person.

Any individual who wishes to exercise this right should apply in writing to the Data Protection Officer. JLT reserves the right to charge a fee for data subject access requests (currently £10). Any such request will normally be complied with within 40 days of receipt of the written request and, where appropriate, the fee.

In order to respond efficiently to subject access requests JLT needs to have in place appropriate records management practices.

11. Data Disclosure

JLT must ensure that personal data is not disclosed to unauthorised third parties which includes family members, friends, government bodies, and in certain circumstances, the Police.

All staff and students should exercise caution when asked to disclose personal data held on another individual to a third party. For instance, it would usually be deemed appropriate to disclose a colleague's work contact details in response to an enquiry regarding a particular function for which they are responsible. However, it would not usually be appropriate to disclose a colleague's work details to someone who wished to contact them regarding a non-work related matter.

The important thing to bear in mind is whether or not disclosure of the information is relevant to, and necessary for, the conduct of JLT business. Best practice, however, would be to take the contact details of the person making the enquiry and pass them onto the member of the Company concerned.

This policy determines that personal data may be legitimately disclosed where one of the following conditions apply:

- The individual has given their consent (e.g. a student/member of staff has consented to JLT corresponding with a named third party);
- Where the disclosure is in the legitimate interests of the institution (e.g. disclosure to staff - personal information can be disclosed to other JLT employees if it is clear that those members of staff require the information to enable them to perform their jobs);
- Where the institution is legally obliged to disclose the data
- Where disclosure of data is required for the performance of a contract

The Act permits certain disclosures without consent so long as the information is requested for one or more of the following purposes:

- To safeguard national security*;
- Prevention or detection of crime including the apprehension or prosecution of offenders*;
- Assessment or collection of tax duty*;
- Discharge of regulatory functions (includes health, safety and welfare of persons at work)*;
- to prevent serious harm to a third party;
- To protect the vital interests of the individual, this refers to life and death situations.

* Requests must be supported by appropriate paperwork and confirmed identification of the source seeking the information.

When members of staff receive enquiries as to whether a named individual (e.g. a student) is a member of the Company, the enquirer should be asked why the information is required. If consent for disclosure has not been given and the reason is not one detailed above (i.e. consent not required), the member of staff should decline to comment. Even confirming whether or not an individual is a member of the Company may constitute an unauthorised disclosure.

Unless consent has been obtained from the data subject, information should not be disclosed over the telephone. Instead, the enquirer should be asked to provide documentary evidence to support their request. Ideally a statement from the data subject consenting to disclosure to the third party should accompany the request.

As an alternative to disclosing personal data, JLT may offer to do one of the following:

- Pass a message to the data subject asking them to contact the enquirer;
- Accept a sealed envelope/incoming email message and attempt to forward it to the data subject.

Please remember to inform the enquirer that such action will be taken conditionally: i.e. "if the person is a member of JLT to avoid confirming their membership of, their presence in or their absence from the institution.

Having received a request for personal data, the staff member must not make any special amendment or deletion to the data which would not otherwise have been made. The information must not be tampered with in order to make it acceptable to the Data Subject.

12. Subject Access Requests

Individuals wishing to access their personal information should submit a request in accordance with the following notes:

- Make your request in writing to the Data Protection Officer (see above for contact details) using the 'Request for Personal Data Form'.
- The request should include details and provide documented evidence of who you are (e.g. copies of driving licence, passport, student / Staff ID card). You should also provide as much detail as possible regarding the information you wish to access (e.g. where and by whom information is believed to be held, specific details of information required etc).
- You are not required to state WHY you wish to access the information: the details we require are merely those that will aid the efficient location and retrieval of information.
- JLT adopts a general policy of openness in terms of allowing individuals access to their personal information but reserves the right to charge a £10 administration fee.
- Once the Data Protection Officer receives a Subject Access Request, all efforts will be made to fully comply within 40 days. In any event, you will receive all the information that has been located and can be released within 40 days and an explanation for any information that cannot be provided at that time.

- In accordance with the Data Protection Act 1998, JLT does not usually release information held about individuals without their consent. Therefore if information held about you also contains information related to a third party, JLT will make every effort to anonymise the information. If this is not possible, and JLT has been unable to secure the relevant consent, JLT may decide not to release the information.
- All queries should be directed to JLT's Data Protection Officer in the first instance.

13. Retention and Disposal of Data

JLT discourages the retention of personal data for longer than they are required.

For further information please see the Records Retention, Archival and Disposal Policy.

14. Publication of JLT Information

All members of JLT should note that JLT publishes a number of items that include personal data, and will continue to do so. These personal data are:

1. Personal data in marketing materials
2. Staff data on JLT's website / intranet (including photographs). It is recognised that there might be occasions when a member of staff, a student, or a member of JLT, requests that their personal details in some of these categories remain confidential or are restricted to internal access. All individuals should be offered an opportunity to opt-out of the publication of the above (and other) data. In such instances, JLT should comply with the request and ensure that appropriate action is taken.

15. Direct Marketing

Any area that uses personal data for direct marketing purposes must inform data subjects of this at the time of collection of the data. Individuals must be provided with the opportunity to object to the use of their data for direct marketing purposes (e.g. an opt-out box on a form).
